Committee Approves "Big Hill" State Park Highway Bond Interest Rate To Be Raised

BIG HILL PARK BILLS FAVORED IN THE SENATE

JANESVILLE AND BELOIT UNITE IN PRESENTING THE PROJECT BEFORE COMMITTEE.

MEETS SUPPORT Following Thursday's Hearing Senate State Affairs Committee Reports for State Park.

Following a hearing at the capital Thursday afternoon, the senate committee on state affairs voted to report favorably on the bill introduced by Senator Ridgway for the purchase of Big Hill on Rock river, between Janesville and Beloit, as a state park.

Beloit sent a delegation from its Chamber of Commerce, headed by David Worthington, its Rotary club in T. C. Hendley, the Kiwanis club in F. E. Gardner and former assemblyman Matheson, H. V. Mosely and Capt. Garrison. The delegation was in charge of the hearing and Senator Ridgway was in charge of the bill.

Janesville Represented. Janesville Chamber of Commerce was represented by J. A. O. Holman, manager, and Stephen Bolles. It was brought out that southern Wisconsin with a population of 1,050,000 did not have a state park or a reservation of any kind. Senator Cunningham said there was a place in several counties where a tent could be pitched without trespass. Attention was called to the fact that large national guard units were in the southern part of the state and also that the park was on the direct line of tourists from the south to Wisconsin, and that the state was growing each year in favor of tourist travel.

Value of Big Hill. Big Hill had a sentimental, a commercial and a historical value, it was shown. It was not a private enterprise of either Beloit or Janesville and the land itself was worth at least $15,000 asked.

Following this and other hearings the committee announced a favorable recommendation to the senate which has the matter up now.

Senator Ridgway on Trip. The senator left last night with the committee to visit state institutions in the northern part of the state. This morning, Leo Baumann, 35, of the school for the blind last week.

There will be a hearing on the Mulberry law at Wednesday. The committee was negotiating yesterday by Assemblyman Matheson, who has the bill in charge.

JEFFERSON NAMES CLINTON BOY DIES BUREAU OFFICERS AFTER RAIL CRASH

JEFFERSON, Feb. 4.—Ernest Nass, Jefferson, was elected president of the Jefferson county farm bureau at the meeting held in the court house here yesterday afternoon. JACK MAN'S ONLY HOPE FOR WINE RESTS WITH PHYSICIAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The amount of hard liquor a sick man may acquire legally is definitely fixed by statute, but the only limit to the amount of wine he may obtain is the "sound and honest judgment" of his physician, and, perhaps, the depth of his purse.

Prohibition Commission Chairman says there seemed to be some confusion as to the quantity of wine that may be prescribed. He laid down the following rule:

"First, further orders physicians may prescribe in their practice such quantities of wine as they, in the exercise of their sound and honest judgment, deem necessary in the particular case. If they in good faith believe that the use of wine as a medicine is necessary and will afford relief to him from some known ailment."

ASSEMBLY VOTE TO SET MAXIMUM AS 5 TO 6 PER CENT

SPEAKER YOUNG OF DARIEN INTRODUCES BILL IN LOWER HOUSE.

SEEK LAND FUND Plan to Borrow Money to Aid Settlement Purposes Is Proposed.

MADISON, Feb. 4.—Constitutional amendment permitting the state to borrow money to the extent of one fifth of a mill on each dollar of assessed general property valuation, to aid in land settlement, is provided in a sub joint resolution introduced in the senate this morning by Senator Warden, Ashland. The resolution would permit the state to borrow approximately $500,000 for land settlement purposes.

The assembly after suspending rules voted to raise the maximum rate of interest which counties may pay on highway bonds from 5 to 6 per cent. Speaker Riley S. Young introduced the bill.

Insurance Bill Introduced. "Senator Huber's bill providing that employers must pay unemployment insurance benefits to their workers when unemployed, was introduced in the upper house.

Recreation Bill Reopened. The fight which has waged for years around reforestation of the outcrops of northern Wisconsin will be reopened again in the legislature by Senator Wm. T. Titus, Fond du Lac.

The bill calls for establishment of a fire protection service in districts where trees have been planted and the dispute between the state and the water power interests, which have claimed the land as tillable.

The administration marketing bill has been completed, according to capitol reports, and its introduction is expected shortly. Advance forecasts say the bill will follow closely the time laid down in Gov. Blaine's message, provides for a separate marketing division, under a commissioner to be appointed by the governor.

Another provision according to reports, would remove the agricultural commissioner from the ranks of the governor's appointive officials, and provide for his selection by a nominating committee, with the executive's approval.

Pension Bill Doomed. Senator St. John's bill creating a retirement pension fund for state capitol employees was laid over late yesterday by the senate committee on public welfare. Legislation, he says, the measure is doomed at this session because of the expense involved.

Hire Man to Relieve Glasco of His Labors for County Farm Bureau

Officers for 1921. Hugh Hemmingsway, president. H. O. Natus, vice-president. C. E. Patterson, secretary.

Electing officers and approving a constitution, the Rock County Farm Bureau at its county convention held in the city hall yesterday afternoon elected officers and approved a constitution. The bureau works in cooperation with the county agricultural agent from doing farm bureau work. Resolutions urged and discussed on the floor were passed for the employment of Rock county agent to handle the business affairs of the bureau.

This action was taken in answer to the adverse sentiment against the bureau which has resulted on the contention that County Agent R. T. Glasco used too much of his time in carrying on farm bureau work and not enough for the county at large.

To Pay Secretary. The farm bureau seeks to pay its secretary a sufficient amount for him to devote much of his time to the bureau work as the official agent. Then the county agent and the bureau secretary could work in close cooperation. O. D. Hall, member of the county board, was the champion of the resolutions for remuneration for the secretary and president of the bureau.

The amount of salary to be paid the secretary was left to the board of directors. Culver who was re-elected secretary is prominent in the affairs of a number of local organizations. He is president of the Tobacco Growers association.

17 Families Are Found Worthy of Assistance

Report that 13 families of the city were found yesterday and four more today in need in addition to those others previously aided was made today by Miss Catherine Kerchaw, Union Relief Bureau secretary, as the result of her first day's work with the new organization. These were checked thoroughly and some help given to 12 in clothing, groceries, meat, bread, milk and doctor's aid where such things were necessary.

"I am finding that the real ones in need are not asking for help," she said. "We locate them through information supplied by their neighbors. In each case they are afraid that we cannot give them the help they need."

Two cases of professional beggars were discovered which demands thorough investigation of each request. In many instances what the families need is work so that they may help themselves to get back on their feet. Jobs were provided in two cases.

TO RAISE $75,000 FOR HOSPITAL HERE

Directors Seek to Make Institution Self Supporting—Would Pay Debts First.

So that Mercy hospital may be returned to a self-sustaining basis, new plan for raising $75,000 has been adopted. A campaign to obtain $75,000 will be inaugurated here. This will be done at a dinner at the hotel Thursday night attended by physicians, the board of directors of the hospital and some of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

The hospital is in debt about $100,000 because of a decision of the ad hoc board, according to W. H. Dougherty, chairman of the dinner. Its income is sufficient to pay off $100,000 leaving the balance to be raised by the sale of bonds. A campaign manager will be brought here from the American City Bureau to raise this money with the Chamber of Commerce.

Three men who were found with the hospital at recent time in Kings town were sentenced to 10 years in prison, of which 5 years were remitted.

Son of a doctor on the board of directors and members of the Chamber of Commerce approved a campaign to raise this money. The dinner was held to acquaint the public with the activities of the institution.

SCHOOL FOR BLIND NAMED IN CHARGE

Engineer Says $3,000 Could Have Been Saved on Coal Here.

CHARGING that it cost the state of Wisconsin $3,000 more through the purchase of coal for a number of state institutions, including the State School for the Blind here, the state power plant engineer, John C. White, appeared before the joint legislative committee at Madison yesterday.

It is claimed by the engineering department that buyers for the school for the blind here could have saved the state $3,000 had they purchased coal on a guaranteed price instead of in the open market. Amounts which could have been saved by other institutions as given by the engineering department are: Northern hospital, $15,000; state hospital, $7,500; state prison, $21,118; and state public school $7,082.

On the strength of these startling disclosures a bill may be introduced by the finance committee authorizing a central purchasing department to buy coal for all state needs.

Buyers for the Janesville School for the Blind bought 115 tons of coal at a total cost of $8,511, it was brought out.

Informing of White's charges today, Sup't. J. T. Hooper of the school for the blind expressed surprise.

The state board of control buys all the coal for the school here and, as I understand it, informs the state engineering department of it, said Mr. Hooper.

The answer to Mr. White's charge is that the coal situation was such last fall that no one knew what was going to happen in the winter. In order to be sure of getting some fuel for this institution, the state board had to go out and buy it on the open market. Up until this year the board had always bought coal for us on contract and with a guarantee. It was impossible to do this last fall.

MRS. HARDING IS WEARY OF TRYING ON NEW CLOTHES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 4.—Examining scores of designs, fabrics, hats and boots, Mrs. W. G. Harding expected to complete the selection of her White House wardrobe today. Slightly wearied by five days of shopping in her hotel suite, she planned to begin enjoying the attractions of New York later in the day and to devote only a part of Saturday to final decisions on the frocks and gowns offered by a multitude of modistes.

Learning this from the secret service men who have been her spokesmen since her arrival here, reporters pleaded that they would receive a complete list of Mrs. Harding's selections before her departure, but failed.

Decision On Points of Law and Alleged Fraud Left With Court.

Dismissing the jury, attorneys trying the land suit case of Ernest Armstrong, Limh township farmer, against the Stewart Land and W. E. Stewart Farm mortgage company, Kansas City, agreed to submit the findings of fact and the conclusions of law to Judge George Grimm.

This action was taken in the circuit court yesterday afternoon after the defense offered no testimony other than from depositions taken in Texas. Briefs will be submitted on the demurrer filed by the defense over the procedure.

It is expected that O. O. French, Kansas City attorney for the land companies, will appeal the case to the state supreme court if any damages are found for the company.

He was born in Lincoln, Nebraska. He was a member of the Green county term two weeks later.

Armstrong through this suit seeks to recover $52,000 on the allegation the defendant company's misrepresentation Texas land which he bought.

New Stories of Lincoln in the Gazette

Saturday's Gazette will be important in many ways, as it contains new material about Lincoln. The story of his rail splitting and another, by an eye witness of his, Gettysburg speech.

Lincoln once visited Janesville and spent a night following a speech at the Tallman home here.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, over whose mansion there rose a great controversy after the war, once wrote a letter to a young woman at Milton. You can read that letter and the fac-simile in the Gazette tomorrow.

And the Rev. Chas. E. Bwing of a Congregational church in Janesville at one time, is in Shantung aiding in giving support to the starving. He writes to the Gazette telling interesting things.

Have you noticed the complete reports of the legislative session at Madison in the Gazette?

There is much that is done at Madison that is uninteresting and without value, but when anything worth while takes place you will find it in the Gazette.

Every day the Gazette is a newspaper and Saturday will be added many special features for the Sunday reading.

HARDING TO UNITE WORLD DELEGATES BITTER ASSERTS

ANNOUNCEMENT TO BE MADE SOON AFTER INAUGURATION OF PRESIDENT.

HEAR NAVY CHIEFS Sims Believes Nations Will Welcome Concerted Action to Reduce Arms.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Feb. 4.—An international conference to discuss disarmament will be called by the United States, Chairman Butler, of the house naval committee said today when the committee met to hear the views of prominent naval officers on the subject.

Chairman Butler did not say when the call would be issued, but from his line of questioning, it was assumed he thought the call would be issued soon after the inauguration of President-elect Harding.

Mr. Butler recently conferred with Mr. Harding at Marion.

Sims First Witness. Rear Admiral Wm. S. Sims, war time commander of American overseas naval forces, was the first witness. With Germany's power crushed, he said, all nations could reduce their naval armaments by half without endangering their safety.

If the navy were maintained purely for defensive purposes, he said, the United States would be safe with a navy half as large as that of any possible enemy thousands of miles away.

If the United States intended to rely on its navy for carrying out broad international policies, he said, its sea power should be equal to that of any other nation.

Keeps on Look Out. Admiral Sims said he agreed with General Pershing that war with Great Britain was "inconceivable," but added that he would not abandon the navy entirely under any conditions, even if it were a matter of life or death.

"You can never tell what may come out of Europe," he said. "Nobody is going to take his hand off his gun."

Admiral Sims added that the navy was not to stop work on the 1216 building program.

Sinking of Submarine Still Remains Mystery

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Feb. 4.—Inquiry by the admiralty into the loss of the British submarine K-5, which sank with all hands off Land's End, a fortnight ago, has failed to clear up the mystery of the sinking, as there were no survivors and the wreckage gave no clue.

Reports originating in Dublin, attributing the disaster to a new electrically-controlled projectile from an Irish sea craft, were ridiculed by admiralty officials as fantastic.

Little Marvel to Quit Chess Game to Learn to Play Like Other Boys

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Cleveland, O.—Samuel Rzeszewski, the tiny Polish Jew chap with the name that puzzles every one and the mastery of the game of chess that has baffled the adult chess masters of the world, is to quit displaying his ability in maneuvering the kings and pawns within a few months, his father says.

The boy's education, neglected because of the demand for his presence all over the world is to come before added fame as a chess player. And he is to be allowed time to live the life of a normal boy of his age—eight and a half years. For while he has been munching chess brain against the combined cunning of a score of experts at a time night after night for months he has missed the joys and thrills that come to the average youngster.

"And we want him to get some real fun out of his boyhood before it is too late," his father, Joseph, explained to me the other night.

The boy, at the time, was playing twenty of the best chess players of Cleveland. Among these twenty players was the city champion, recognized throughout this section of the country as a formidable player. The other players, with the exception of one youthful champion, were leading business and professional men of the city.

Samuel Rzeszewski as the public knows him and as he is when he's enjoying himself—merely watching a fire truck plunge by his hotel.

Plays Very Rapidly.

From one hour to another Samuel, the U-shaped table chess player, as he approached each table his opponent moved. The boy had glanced sharply at his opponent—then at the board—and then moved. Only as the contest narrowed down to the last few players—and Samuel—did the boy ponder for any length of time.

Among the spectators were students of child psychology, judges who deal day in and day out with juveniles, school teachers and college professors. They studied the boy's every move from the scientific side. They saw his glance at each opponent after each player to get the reaction of his move in his opponent's eyes. Unconscious psychology was watched the boy as a boy—a little lad just like hundreds of thousands of others of his age.

He felt no pleasure from the contest. He seemed almost bored as he went about his game. And the only time he seemed to notice anyone was on each trip around the table when he passed behind the father. Then each time he had a little smile for the elder Rzeszewski.

Smiles Just Once.

Only once during his public appearance, the City club, did he show real boyish enthusiasm—did he revert back to his real self. That was when the photograph was made. Everyone in the room, blink and let forth a fair-sized report. Sammy blinked with the rest and then laughed in glee. And the photographer made ready for a second "shot," he said, in Hebrew. "Oh, dad, are they going to do it again?"

Sammy was only five when he attracted attention in the little town of Ozierow, about 100 miles from the industrial city of Lodz. Within a year everybody urged his father to take him to other places to show his ability.

"I thought little about what it meant to him then, for he was enthusiastic about playing," says his father. "But soon his fame spread until London and Paris experts asked me to bring him to those cities. It was then I found that he was giving too much time to chess and not enough to study and play. But I guess just like other fathers, I wanted the boy to be famous."

"But he has won enough fame now," (He has defeated the chess experts, singly and in platoons, of all the leading countries.)

His Life Isn't Ideal.

To the average boy Sammy's life seems ideal. He has traveled extensively, lives at the best hotels and has hundreds trailing him around, admiring him and praising his cleverness. But Sammy doesn't get any fun out of it.

What troubled him most on his visit to Cleveland was that the man who drove him about town before the match allowed him to drive the auto. And the last thing Sammy said before he was swept into the room where twenty opponents and 200 spectators awaited him was: "You'll surely be here at 11 o'clock to take us to the train so I can drive."

Sammy isn't far from a normal boy now. An up-as-chess is concerned he has the mind of an aged master, but apparently he has no other abnormalities. He's a dapper little chap—fair, skinned and light haired. He has a winning little smile that draws him to the dais and others among the spectators. They say he has to go to his hotel room each day to spend his time in playing with a mechanical train outfit. He likes machinery.

He isn't badly spoiled. He refuses to play chess with any ordinary individual. But that is because he is aware that he has mastered the chess to such an extent that no contest, ordinary or real, gives him no contest. If he knew how to play he would soon "make up" with other boys and girls of his age. But the three years of his life which carried him from an uneducated into real boyhood—those years when he should have learned how to play—he has spent with so-

LIQUID EGG TRADE HAS RAPID GROWTH

Milwaukee.—Ten years ago the liquid egg industry was an infant, says Martin Kipper, secretary of the Milwaukee Produce Exchange. Today there is handled more than twenty millions of pounds annually. Eggs cracked by day and night, and in checks are used. The liquid matter is extracted from the shell and it put into cans and tightly sealed.

Next they go through a freezing process at a temperature of about zero. Kept in a cool place, it is believed they can be stored for periods of from one to five years without losing their wholesomeness. Bakers, confectioners and the large meat manufacturers are the principal users.

"Up to the present, the demand has been confined largely to our more eastern cities," adds Mr. Kipper. "Trading in this commodity is regulated by the Federal Government, no one being permitted to traffic in liquid eggs without first having obtained a license."

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT YOUTHS' BANQUET

County school teachers are urged to notify R. T. Glasco, county agent, how many boys and girls are planning to attend the farm club banquet meeting to be held in the Methodist church tomorrow noon. Appleton.—Peter Fassebender of this city is the owner of a snuff box that is over one hundred years old. It was made by his grandfather who died in 1830. It was given to Mr. Fassebender when he visited Germany in 1901 by a cousin. The cover is inlaid with mosaic work which represents two robins on a bough of a tree. Famous Tenor Charms Large Audience Here

Seldom has any artist received such a welcome as was accorded Theo Karlo, young tenor who made his first appearance in his city last evening before the Apollo club and never before has any artist been so responsive to applause as was the star for the Apollo club season.

The first number was given with such surpassing beauty of expression, displaying such voice mastery in the difficult and lengthy phrase that the audience was won from the first. In the second number "Boats of Mine" "Torna Ancora" and "Paradiso" enraptured the audience with the clearness of tone and faultless diction. "Little Mother of Mine" was the encore sung with the sincerity and expression of John McCormack.

The fourth number included a Scotch song "The Lass of Jilgane," "I'll Follow You," an Irish song three negro selections "Tis Me, Oh Lord," "Hard Trials" and "Didn't It Rain." The last being sung as an encore. In these numbers Karlo injected the genuine warmth of his personality.

Closing numbers were "Supplication," "The Afternoon," "The Cave" and "Have You Been to London," the second securing the greatest applause. For a closing encore the Irish favorite "Macushla" made popular by McCormack and Chauncy Olcott was sung.

Directors of the Apollo club say that Theo Karlo was the star of the season and that he in his concert of last evening surpassed advance notices of his ability.

Mr. Karlo accompanied by his wife came to this city direct from New York where he made 30 records for a photograph company. His return to the concert stage has been heralded with delight. He spent one year and a half in the army during the war.

Egon Putz was Mr. Karlo's accompanist on the piano last night.

"MECCA" PRODUCER SUES HENRY FORD FOR ALLEGED LIBEL

Morris Gest.

Morris Gest, producer of "Mecca," "Chu Chin Chow" and other spectacles, and son-in-law of David Roscoe, has sued Henry Ford for $5,000,000 for alleged libel.

The suit charges that alleged libelous statements were published January 22 in the Dearborn Independent, Henry Ford's weekly, in an article said to have had as its caption "How Jews Capitalized Protest Against Jews." The article, according to the petition, discussed both Gest and the type of stage productions he offers. It termed them "the most salacious spectacles ever shown in America."

Says Gest: "He has cast aspersions on my origin, my honor and my productions, and I will spend the last dollar I have and the last drop of blood to prosecute and punish him."

Ford is reported as saying: "Mr. Gest will be ignored."

Cow Dies Trying To Digest Nails

East Center, Feb. 4.—Frank Splinter lost a good milk cow this week which he valued highly, the animal dying, apparently from poison. An autopsy performed on the cow showed that the animal had tried to digest five nails which was the cause of her sudden demise.

Wausau Follows JANESVILLE'S STEP

While engineers are working on plans for a $500,000 concrete viaduct over railroad tracks here, notices come from Wausau that efforts are being made to have similar action taken there.

The mayor, city engineer and city attorney of Wausau were in conference at Chicago this week with officials of the Northwestern road. Mayor or Platter, returning home from the session, issued this statement:

Our visit was a success. Wausau will have a viaduct over the railroad tracks on Grand avenue which will be handsome and satisfactory to all.

In Fond du Lac, the city is petitioning for a union passenger station. A hearing before the railroad commission will be held in Fond du Lac, Feb. 17. The city has three railroads entering. The Nelson plan for Janesville calls for a union station.

SCOUTS TO HIKE AGAIN TOMORROW

IS HE WATCHING HIS DRIVE OR DOES HE SEE HIS CABINET?

President-elect Harding on the links at Palm Beach, Florida. Is he intent on his game or is he deciding on his cabinet? Who knows?

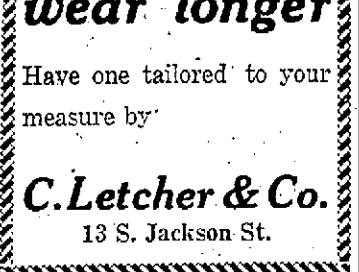

To all intents and purposes President-elect Harding is giving no thought to the fact that everybody is anxiously awaiting his choice of cabinet members. He seems to be intent on his golf game, judging by the pictures of Harding, taken at Palm Beach during a stopover on his houseboat cruise in Florida. He has made no statement whatever concerning the making of his cabinet and it is the general belief, therefore, that he is taking this opportunity of deciding away from presence of pleaders and job seekers—the personnel of his official family. Political dopesters in Washington, however, feel sure that these men will get berths in the new cabinet. Senator Fall of New Mexico, secretary of the interior; Harry Daugherty, attorney's campaign manager; attorney general Charles E. Hughes; secretary of state; and Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury.

Hughes is slated for the state portfolio for the reason that he is said to be in accord with the views of Harding regarding international affairs. Harry Daugherty was the man who induced Harding to enter the race for the nomination and then conducted his pre-convention campaign. Mellon, prominent Pittsburgh banker and railroad man, was not talked of for a cabinet post up to the last few weeks, but the probability seems to be one of the probabilities for secretary of the treasury.

ALL ALDERMEN MAY SEEK RE-ELECTION

Ransom Only One Not Yet Entered in Race—Mayor Welsh Still Non-Committal.

Probably every one of the five aldermen whose terms expire in April, will seek re-election according to present indications. J. H. Ransom, alderman from the Third is the only one who will make no announcement of his political intentions.

Those whose terms are about to expire are:

First ward—E. L. Badger.
Second—Louis Kerstel.
Third—E. H. Ransom.
Fourth—W. J. Hill.
Fifth—E. F. Kelly.

All except Ransom announce their intentions to enter the race to keep their seats in the city council.

"Night as well as day—no harm done," is the general feeling. While a great deal is being said about who will run for mayor, no definite announcements are forthcoming. T. B. Welsh, the present incumbent, is non-committal on the subject although it is the general belief that he will again seek the endorsement of voters at the spring election. H. C. Klein, mentioned as a possible candidate, has adopted a policy of "watchful waiting."

City Clerk E. J. Sartell, appointed to that office a year ago by the council, will seek to be returned. No opposition has as yet developed so far as is known.

Speaking about the proposal to raise the mayor's salary from $600 to $2,500, Mayor T. B. Welsh says:

"No one knows who is going to be the next mayor. I will say however that I've practically given up two years of my business for the interests of the city and have lost money on it. I've worn out one car doing city work and my second one is approaching that stage."

"JAZZ" IS DEAD IN LONDON SAYS DANCER

London.—The "jazz" is dead in London, says P. J. S. Richardson, one of the foremost English authorities on dancing. He says that the "new" dances will be popularized this year, but the fox-trot, one-step and tango, which have held international interest for two or three seasons, will be standardized.

"Previously those taught the same dances by different teachers found themselves hopelessly at sea when they tried to dance together," he says. "Through standardization, on which the majority of dancing instructors in London have now agreed, a common framework in the steps will be insured without eliminating all chance of introducing individual variations. Freakish and eccentric 'light gymnastic' such as exaggerated forms of 'jazz' are rapidly passing out."

Australia Sends Its War Orphans to School

Melbourne.—The Australian government has undertaken to educate the children of Australian soldiers killed or totally incapacitated in the world war. At least 12,000 children are expected to benefit. The plan covers the whole range of the educational curriculum, in industrial, agricultural and professional courses to which, where necessary, with periods of apprenticeship and a subsidy for maintenance while undergoing such training. A fund of approximately $6,500,000 is on hand, which includes a grant from the Federal Government of $4,000,000 and a transfer from the Repatriation Trust Fund of approximately $650,000. Large contributions are assured from other sources.

Brown County Farmers Oppose Daylight Saving

Green Bay.—The farmers of Brown county are not in favor of the daylight saving plan, according to J. N. Kavanagh, county agricultural agent. He asserts that the daylight saving plan will do the farmer a great deal of harm. He says that the farmer's day starts and ends at a certain hour and means a loss of an hour each day. Another handicap, he said, is that farm laborers as a rule do not want to work after four or five o'clock under the new time. As a result the farmer has to do the work himself or let it lie.

County Jail Is Empty First Time in 2 Years

Wisconsin Rapids.—The Wood county jail is empty. This is the first time in two years that the jail has been empty, according to Sheriff Mueller. The jail was abandoned when the last prisoner was paroled. Two years ago when former Sheriff Blunt took the office, the jail was empty. Local authorities state that they will not sell the jail as they feel it is a handy place to have around in case they want to use it.

Make the city a place of welcome to visitors and new residents and not for their ex-patriation. Build the hotel for Janesville in 1921. Provide entertainment place and music for the people all the year. Provide a camp for the auto tourists who come to Janesville. Continue the paving of Janesville streets until all are completed.

BIG HILL FOR STATE PARK.

Big Hill is the highest point of ground in the county, covered in most part with heavy woods. Rock river flows at its foot. It has a value historical as well as commercial. In senate bill 45-S, introduced by Senator Ridgway, the state is asked to take over the hill, 79 acres in all, as a state park. There is no state park in all of Southern Wisconsin. Big Hill is one of the very few places available for such a park in this section. It can be made a nationally known stopping place, for tourists coming to Wisconsin, and a camping ground for the national guard of the southern part of the state from time to time. The bill has now been recommended for passage by the senate committee on state affairs and it is to be hoped it will eventually pass. In supporting it wholeheartedly, Janesville has joined Beloit, and that is a good thing to mention.

MR. BRADY AND THE MOVIES.

William A. Brady, prize fight promoter and moving picture magnate, "new heated and peevish before the city council of Chicago in defending the moving picture game as now presented to the public. He vehemently claimed that the effort was to destroy the industry by a moral censorship. Then Mr. Brady quoted President Wilson as having appealed to movie producers at the outbreak of the war to spread patriotic sentiment. "You would destroy it," added Mr. Brady.

The gentleman from New York is wrong; no one wants to destroy the industry although the producers are doing more than any one other factor to kill it. Because a house is used for immoral purposes does not demand the destruction of all houses in the United States. Mr. Brady says censorship would end Shakespeare productions and John of Arc. That is beside the question. He knows better, or if he does not should be better informed. What censorship is after and will get if the producer continues along the lines of indecency, is the scenario deliberately written and magnificently or otherwise produced, portraying unquestioned immorality and sex abnormalities, apotheosizing the crook and the outlaw, and giving a view of life, false and misleading. That is what the censored and disgusted public is after in a censorship—and we do not believe that Mr. Brady will say that this sort of a play instigates patriotism or teaches anything other than that wickedness is a nice thing for anybody so long as one does not get caught.

REGRET AT MR. HULL'S RETIREMENT.

It is a matter of regret that George Hull, our fellow citizen of Johnstown, felt it necessary for personal reasons to resign as president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation. Under his management it has grown from a small organization in Rock county to cover 12 counties of the state and make its decided impress on the farm business of Wisconsin. His successor, George McKorrov, of Pewaukee, is one of the most advanced and enterprising of Wisconsin farmers, and he will be a worthy successor of Mr. Hull.

HOLDING OVER APPROPRIATION BILLS.

It was thought that the refusal of the senate to pass the closure rule ending debate and arriving at a vote on the tariff bill, would kill the measure, but Senator Penrose has put a new phase on the situation by his threat not to permit the passage of any appropriation bills until after March 4, as he considered the Emergency tariff bill, designed to aid the farmers, as of much greater importance.

That the appropriation bills might well go over to the next congress will be agreed to by all but the members of the present administration. Why should the administration of Mr. Harding be handicapped by the appropriations made on the recommendations of an administration for which he is in no way responsible, and which dies as he enters office? It would not be a bad precedent to set if the appropriation bills were regularly advanced to the incoming congress when there is a change in the government personnel.

ORGANIZED RELIEF WORK.

Relief work in the city of Janesville is now so organized that the Gazette will close its fund and all contributions will hereafter be sent to the United Relief, with headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce. The last ten days has demonstrated what Janesville can do if grouped. The organization of the young men of the city in the first Aid society was a splendid thing to do and has been of great importance in getting things under way. The need of an investigator of all cases of complaint and services of a competent person to search out those cases which are worthy of attention but which are not reported, has been apparent all along. A central bureau for this purpose, which will not be for a day or a month, but of continuous work, should be efficient and sufficient.

When a group of young women can organize an entertainment that nets close to $1,500, the wisest theatrical managers of the country will have to investigate. But Janesville girls did it.

So far the state legislature has passed no laws. That is a good sign. If only a dozen were passed it would be to the advantage of the state. There are many who have an idea that whatever

MUNICIPAL AID TO CUPID

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New York City, Feb. 4.—With Brother Crafts attacking public courting on the one hand, and the housing situation making private courting difficult on the other, what is to become of the gentle art? The social service workers of our large cities fear that, unless some extraordinary measure is taken to restore it, the course of true love may receive a serious setback.

What they advocate is the establishment of municipal courting parlors—run possibly in connection with the public schools or churches—where the youth of the nation can do its love-making against a drab background.

The courting situation is becoming worse daily, they assert, as housing conditions become more acute. With several families occupying one small house or apartment, there is simply no space left for Cupid.

Never before have our American girls been so handicapped in the important business of fascinating prospective husbands. For all the old reliable tricks of the courting campaign have been swept away by the housing shortage. Miss Jones, who used to attract so many beaux with the aid of her mother's charming little Sunday night suppers, now has to make the best of two feet of space in the front hall, the dining-room being rented to another family at the rate of $100 a month. And Miss Smith, who used to be able to wheedle a proposal out of any man in the dim, pink-shaded radiance of the family parlor, has now had to learn an entirely new technique for doing the same thing in a movie theatre.

It has come to the point where, unless a family is rich, a girl practically has to meet her boy friends outside her home. Instead of sitting in the parlor with the light turned low, they are now forced to meet in hotel lobbies, corner drug stores, parks, movies and cabarets, where there are always many interruptions to the serious work in hand. The experience of social workers shows that Cupid does not thrive in such conditions. Often he is cruelly misunderstood by the police, and frequently he himself proves unreliable, with the result that thousands of girls are now finding their romantic dreams ending in unpleasant affairs in the juvenile and women's courts.

One of the leaders of the new movement for city courting parlors is Miss Mary Bartelme, chief of the staff of social workers in the Chicago Juvenile Court.

"I have been watching the vicissitudes of city courting for 20 years," declared Miss Bartelme recently in discussing this novel project, "and I have listened to thousands of girls tell their stories, how they happened to 'go wrong' when they met young men clandestinely outside their homes, and what they would have done had conditions been different. And I am firmly convinced that the housing problem is at the bottom of most of the cases that come to me."

"What we need," continued the small, grey-haired lady, who knows so much about fallen femininity, "is public-courting parlors. School boards should turn their buildings over to the young folks. Churches should be open every night to help girls entertain their friends."

"Cities are building great municipal garages to park automobiles so they won't clutter up the streets," she said. "Department stores and check book stores so mothers can be free. So why not have a municipal courting parlor where a girl can park her sweetie?"

The same view is held by a prominent clubwoman here in New York whose hobby is smoothing the path of the working girl. She asserts that under present conditions the moving picture theaters and dance halls are the only haven for the majority of courting couples. So many young girls live here in New York that they are small towns, she says, and they do not bring their families with them. They live in small rooms in crowded boarding houses, which seldom maintain parlors any more where the boarders may entertain their friends. The only place they can meet young men is in the street.

"The other day," the clubwoman told the reporter, "a mother came to me very much worried because her daughter, who is only 19, had been seen so frequently with men in a rather notorious hotel lobby. She never thought Geraldine would turn out that way, she told me pathetically. 'Turn out what way?' said I indignantly. 'Are you asking me to believe that Geraldine is a fool?' If so, I can't accommodate you. I think that the child is taking the only course open to her. You both live in one room in a boarding house, and it is not a very attractive room at that. Geraldine could not possibly entertain her friends there, and so she selects the most attractive background available to her, which is the hotel around the corner. I have seen her there myself talking nonsense with that Columbia student who is so mad about her."

One of the worst results of this lack of courting facilities, according to this woman, is the hasty marriage. Young folks, despairing of finding any privacy, decide to get married and find a place they can call their own, she says.

"And everybody knows what happens in too many hasty marriages," she added. "The courting parlor would, I believe, lift a tremendous burden from the divorce courts."

Several New York apartment houses have recently responded to the need for some such institution by equipping and relegating a portion of their lobbies for the social diversions of their young tenants.

There is also a woman's club, known as The Girl's Community Club, on East Thirtieth street here, which has made special efforts to revive the pastime of courting for its members. When any member of the club wants to entertain her particular swain, she can place a tea table in a corner of the clubroom or conservatory and serve him tea or oyster stew prepared in the club kitchen.

Hotel managers are beginning to protest against the presence of so many young couples in their lobbies. The post office complains that their popularity as meeting places for lovers is interfering with the efficiency of the mails, and the movie theaters are becoming antagonistic to courting couples on the grounds that real love-making in the audience distracts attention from the love-making in the reel. Then, there are the city police, who are so mild when it comes to rebuking crime, but are so fiercely resentful of spoiling in the parks.

One of the other day, Cupid was chased from one of his strongest refuges by the police, while a great jewel robbery was taking place around the block. In proud triumph, a group of young couples were hailed into court, finger-printed, and required to explain how they dared to embrace in so righteously respectable a place as a park. However, in this case the arrest came, in the majority of instances, too late. Cupid had already triumphed, for many of the girls showed the judge their engagement rings as excuses for their unseemly behavior.

One of the person, nation or state may have, a law will remedy it.

Racine has a hot contest for mayor in sight. There are eight candidates so far. Senator Buck has been selected by the Law Enforcement League on a platform of cleaning the city of its bootleggers, gamblers and general meanness—a big job in Racine.

It is gratifying to learn from the Gazette that the ill which require whiskey to cure are growing less numerous and violent. Also that most of these sudden pains arrive coincidental with club parties.

Probably there has never been a gathering in Madison of more importance than the Get-Together or marketing conference now being held.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WHEN DAY IS DONE.
When day is done and the night slips down,
And I've turned my back on the busy town,
And come once more to the welcome gate
Where the roses nod and the children wait,
I tell myself as I see them smile
That life is good and its tasks worth while.

When day is done and I've come once more
To my quiet street and the friendly door,
Where the mother reigns and the children play,
And the kettle sings in the old-time way,
I throw my coat on a near-by chair
And say I'll wait my pack of care.

When day is done, all the hurt and strife
And the selfishness and the greed of life,
Are left behind in the busy town;
I've ceased to worry about the town,
Or cold or famine, I'm just a dad,
Content to be with his girl and lad.

Whatever the day has brought of care,
Here love and laughter are free to share,
Here I can claim what the rich desire—
Rest and peace by a ruddy fire,
The welcome words which the loved ones speak
And the soft caress of a baby's cheek.

When day is done and I reach my gate,<
I come to a realm where there is no hate,
For here, whatever my work may be,
Are those who cling to their faith in me;
And with love on guard at my humble door,
I have all that the world has struggled for.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON

A QUESTION.
Sunday baseball is licentious.
Sunday morning is a crime.
Sunday movies are degrading.
Sunday strollers must stay in.

Sunday cooking is disgraceful.
Sunday dancing is a crime.
Sunday smoking blights our morals.
Sunday singers must do time.

Sunday phonographs are harmful.
But will some one tell us, pray,
How these things are worse on Sunday
Than on any other day?

Official census takers overlooked Long Beach and it now has officially a population of 0. Ought to be a fine place to live, say we. Wonder how the census people happened to think of New York City.

We know the wave of crime is over because all the officials have told us so. The hold-ups and shootings now are done just in fun, and when a wife is cracked it is cracked only in a Pickwickian sense.

Cannot some bandit enliven the news by escaping on a bicycle or in a wheel-chair? The old "high-powered car" has been worked to death.

Some of the small nations seem bent on exercising their privilege of self-extinctionism.

Who's Who Today

ANDREW W. MELLON.
The man most prominently mentioned now for the post of secretary of the treasury is Andrew W. Mellon, Pittsburgh banker and railroad magnate. The belief that Mellon is slated for a portfolio is strengthened by the fact that he recently resigned as director of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Andrew William Mellon was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1855. He was the son of Thomas Mellon, in 1906 Mellon married Miss Nora McMillen. He was associated with the late Henry C. Frick in a number of copper and iron enterprises. He holds official positions in a large number of Pennsylvania banks. Mellon was at one time president of the Carnegie Institute. He also founded the town of Donora, Pa. It is here that he established great steel mills.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Feb. 4, 1881.—J. P. Zeller, a representative of the Rock Island Chilled Pile Works, is here conferring with the officials of the Harris Manufacturing company. According to reports the Harris works will within a year start manufacturing chilled piles for that company.

THIRTY-ONE YEARS AGO
Feb. 4, 1890.—The stockholders of the Loan Building and Saving corporation of this city met last night and re-elected the following officers: President, Stanley B. Smith; vice-president, George Sutherland; secretary, A. P. Burnham; treasurer, C. E. Conrad; and attorney, John M. Whitehead.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Feb. 4, 1901.—The first genuine blizzard of the season struck the city last evening about seven o'clock, lasting until almost dawn this morning. It has tied up the street cars and made all the trains hours late. It is reported as general all over this section of the country.

TEN YEARS AGO

Feb. 4, 1911.—Mr. and Mrs. Anson Clapper, Clinton, observed their fifth wedding anniversary at their home this noon with a large family reunion. A movement has been started in the city to have a stone pile at the jail for the prisoners to work on. Sheriff Ransom is in favor of it.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

I GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE

Although I have consistently and constantly opposed the use of castor oil internally—excepting the occasion when a doctor for the stomach and liver and for acute diarrhea put into this column in one of the chapters of the Autobiography of a Baby—I am bound to give the devil his due. The use of castor oil for the treatment of the consideration of victims of its griping or periodic one-sided sick headaches. Dear Sir:

After I have remarked sincerely that your daily personal health service department is about the most important feature of this paper, you will, perhaps, allow me to say that some of your recent discussions of, and replies to queries about sick headaches have been, in my opinion, rather pessimistic, leaving the impression that relief might be expected only when a medical coil had been unwound or otherwise disposed of.

About six years ago attacks of this kind became so frequent to me that I seriously considered giving up my work and was unquestionably headed for the junk heap. My symptoms... when the attacks occurred my abdomen was hard as a board and it was impossible for the doctor to determine whether the condition originated in that region or in my eyes. However, upon facing the necessity of doing something to get rid of the pain, I decided to give a thorough trial to the castor oil treatment.

The result has been an entire cessation of the attacks. It may be that I have merely found a better way to get rid of the pain, but the fact is that the attacks have been entirely stopped. I wish some fragment of my experience might reach your disgruntled readers or correspondents.

Yours very truly,
(J. E.)

The prolonged use of small daily doses of castor oil as described by our correspondent has been found beneficial in the treatment of many cases of face or head neuralgia. The modus operandi is uncertain; it cannot be merely the laxative action, for the results are permanent.

At first, I took a teaspoonful of a little less each morning shortly after rising. This produced rather violent action, which was right for a start. After a few weeks I took somewhat less, and now, when I take it at all, I take it just after breakfast, and the effect is very gentle.

But will some one tell us, pray, how these things are worse on Sunday than on any other day?

HOROSCOPE

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1921

Until late tonight kindly stars rule, according to astrology. Jupiter and Saturn are in strongly benefic aspect. Venus is adverse long after sunset. It is a bad omen for initiation of new sort, especially in all commercial lines.

Again many signs point to the increase of success in small undertakings. There should be prosperity in new ventures.

Saturn gives fair promise to the aged and to those who are past middle life. Just as during war times there was the forecast of supreme service of the part of young men and women, now it is predicted that years will be recognized as an assurance of valuable experience. An aged statesman will gain new fame.

Women will not find the evening a auspicious one for love or any other enterprise. They should be exceedingly discreet and very wise in pushing their political claims.

There is a menacing sign for theaters and other places of amusement, for there is a strong tendency toward small economies.

Life insurance comes under the best direction of the stars this year and women should be especially successful agents.

Taxation will be bitterly discussed, the more fervent they prosper but slight reductions this year.

There is a sinister star read as menacing to certain policies that the next president of the United States will desire to make prominent in his administration. Obstruction seems to be predestined.

Health legislation will now come prominently before legislators. Hospitals are likely to suffer from insufficient support.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of travel and change that will be beneficial.

Children born on this day will be fond of variety and adventure. Many sailors are born under this direction of the stars.

Chalmers' Postponed Trip to U. S. Is Explained

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
London, Feb. 4.—Negotiations relative to an adjustment of Great Britain's debt to the United States are in the hands of Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador in Washington, and the proposed trip to America of Lord Chalmers, permanent secretary of the treasury, was merely to facilitate the conversations. This was the explanation given for the postponement of Lord Chalmers' visit to the United States during the absence of Ambassador Geddes.

HOW MUCH DOES MABEL WEIGH?

How tall is little John?
School children should be constantly weighed and measured.
By careful inspection at home it is possible to tell whether the child is gaining the proper progress in growth, and to detect the presence of disease.

Many American Red Cross has a new book, which was prepared by the American School Hygiene Association, that contains complete height and weight tables for both boys and girls from 5 to 15 years of age.

This booklet contains 48 pages of text, tables and illustrations. It is so complete that it even has an index.

It is now being distributed FREE by the Washington Information Bureau of the Daily Gazette.

Get one for use in your own family, and send in as many names and addresses of others as you like.

The only cost is two cents in stamps for return postage, which is used for return postage.

DAWES IN LINE FOR FEDERAL RESERVE

Ex-Army Officer Considered for Office But "Not in Politics"

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Washington, Feb. 4.—When Charles Grosvenor Dawes told the reporters that he didn't intend to "go in" for politics, he was not saying that there is good reason to believe that Mr. Dawes is being considered for the governorship of the Federal Reserve Board, a position which Mr. Dawes would succeed W. P. C. Harding, who resigns soon to become the head of the new $100,000,000 corporation being organized to finance foreign trade.

Yank Defense: Not Surprising. Mr. Dawes' dramatic defense of the American Expeditionary Forces outside the domain of politics, Mr. Dawes would succeed W. P. C. Harding, who resigns soon to become the head of the new $100,000,000 corporation being organized to finance foreign trade.

No Records Day After. The outburst by Mr. Dawes before the congressional committee investigating war expenditure was impressive. Yet the former brigadier general minced no words and has no apology or regrets to offer on the day after. General Pershing is still in the army and maintains a more temperate attitude but examination of his testimony from time to time shows that he shares the chagrin of army men who believe that the war was won in the shortest possible time to have their methods picked to pieces by a group of laymen in congress.

Defends Democrats. There has been a consistent attack on the government's management of the war ever since the political campaign of 1920 started, which was early in that year. Mr. Dawes is a republican and one of the few who have come to the defense of the democratic administration responsible for the conduct of the war. As a matter of fact republicans occupied many positions of importance in the war department and probably made just as many mistakes and were just as extravagant as the democrats but the blame has been placed on the democrats and there is no question but that much of the overhauling vote in the last election was due to some extent to the stories of extravagance and inefficiency in managing the war.

War Demands Speed. Mr. Dawes takes the position that the making of war is not an efficiency job that can be carefully calculated in advance and that where human life is at stake to secure the victory little thought of the money that must be spent to secure victory and end bloodshed. Those who were in Washington in the early months of the war and had opportunity to know what was going on inside the war department will never forget the avalanche of criticism which came down on the head of General Pershing when he tried to be parsimonious, when he insisted on examining contracts with minute care. The outcry was against delay no matter what the cost. "Spend the money now, run the war and count the expense afterwards." This was the general tone of the criticism and much of it came from members of Congress who went to the war department to hasten the execution of contracts in which their constituents were vitally interested.

General Pershing's official report on the American Expeditionary Forces says that he could not have done the job in France without the co-operation of Congress and Secretary Baker. They gave him a free hand beginning to end, because they thought his judgment on the spot was better than their own. 8,000 miles away Mr. Dawes, therefore, has turned the guns of the investigation away from the democratic administration.

"It was a big job," he said, "and we are proud of it. In finding fault and hunting responsibility, you don't have far to go. Pershing was the commander in chief and his shoulders are big enough, thank God, to bear it."

Throws Politics to Winds. These words still ring in the ears of members of congress who heard Dawes throw politics to the winds and courageously rise in defense of those who whatever their political mistakes afterwards did use every ounce of energy and every resource to bring the war to an end without untailing to America the tremendous loss of life which the allied countries suffered.

Few Articles

When the last "fade out" comes and the movie fans start to obtain a lead for the grand rush to the door, how many and what articles are lost?

One would believe that the excitement of watching the film here do a fair amount of stunt work on today's exciting scenes with his instruments of sudden death, or becoming captured at the whimsy of the movie queen, would cause people to lose many personal articles.

A few gloves, once in a while a muff and at times an umbrella is left behind. It is not very often that the public leaves without, says Starr Wixom at the Drury.

BIG CEMENT SEWER NEARLY FINISHED

Plentiful Supply of Labor Responsible for Unusually Fast Progress.

Work on the Pine street storm sewer, started just a week ago today by a gang of 50 men, is about half finished. It has gone along the fastest of any sewer job ever attempted here, according to Street Commissioner Thomas McKone who is in charge, and he has worked on scores of them having built the first concrete sewer ever laid here.

Excavation was completed this week and pouring of cement is now under way. A concrete sewer, 36 inches in diameter, will be laid through the entire stretch of two blocks. The length will be about 1,000 feet. Close to 600 feet of sewer has already been built in the 7-foot ditch.

With the completion of excavation the force has been laid off so there are now only 12 men employed in running the mixer and spreading concrete. The mixer being used is the one purchased several years ago when the city was under the commission form of government.

Scraping of the Fourth Avenue, Court street and Racine street bridges preparatory to painting is about completed. A dozen men have worked on these jobs. The work will not be done until warmer weather.

WORK IN DISEASE PLANNED FOR STATE BY BOARD OF HEALTH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison.—A definite legislative program has been formulated by the State Board of Health which provides for extension of the disease prevention work. Activities of the department were said to have grown to such an extent that further attention to its needs would be required.

For general administration the board will ask for an increase from five to eight deputy health officers. Such was said to have 12 to 16 counties in his district now, a territory that, officers said, is physically impossible to cover thoroughly. The public local boards of health and physicians were declared to be demanding more of the deputy's time than formerly.

Aid is to be asked of the legislature for continuance of the work of supervision and control of venereal diseases. This work has been so far developed in the state, according to the board, that it feels warranted in asking for continuance of support given during the past two years.

A larger budget for the sanitary engineering bureau is to be asked in order that its work may be extended to fill demands made by enforcement of state health laws. Similarly it was said that the bureau of child welfare and public health nursing, begun two years ago, needs further provision to take care of the expanded work.

For further control of communicable diseases, it is planned to develop a separate bureau as proposed by the United States Public Health Service. Work planned for this bureau, would yield a larger financial return to the state in lives saved than any other possible expenditure. Greater provision for laboratory work along this line is to be asked.

The establishment of public comfort stations as required by law was said to have made demands on the bureau of plumbing and sanitary engineering during the past year. Only about 20 cities have fully complied with the law, it was stated, although many more are taking steps. The state was said to have continued its work of inspecting restaurants, and the supervision of sanitary conditions at county fairs and the state fair.

Jefferson Holsteins Shipped to Nebraska

Mr. Pfeifer was well pleased with the service rendered by the secretary. Mr. Gafke stated that he shipped four pure bred Holstein bulls to various parts of the country last week and that he has inquiries for fifteen carloads of grades and purebreds.

Atlanta, Ga.—Coolidge's overcoat was stolen while he was last week. The best sleuths in the city have failed to find it.

What Every American Should Know About His Country and Its Opportunities

An Italian Fruit Peddler in Italy Now One of the Leading Fruit Merchants in America

IN no other country of the world are there so many opportunities for those born in humble circumstances to achieve success as in America. Here the greatest honors have been given to the men who were born poor, whether in politics or business life. Our greatest presidents, our greatest lawyers, our greatest merchants and our greatest leaders in industry were poor boys, and many of these lawyers, merchants, and industrial leaders were immigrants from Europe. The wise men who founded this government and devised the Constitution which made all these things possible were determined that in America opportunity and the chance to succeed should be open to all whether native born or immigrant, rich or poor.

Whatever industry we may choose to look into, we find that many of its foremost leaders were immigrant boys who achieved success by their own efforts and industry. In the fruit industry we have Joseph D. Georgia who was a fruit peddler in Italy and his brother Samuel D. Georgia. These men, immigrant boys a few years ago, are now fruit merchants of country-wide fame and owners of many tropical fruit carrying transportation lines. Another leader in this industry is Joseph A. Steinhart who was a wagon boy not many years ago. He is known to every dealer in the United States. Andrew Spada, still under forty years of age, landed in America from Italy twenty-five years ago, without funds or friends, and by sheer force of character and industry in this brief period has climbed to the top of his branch of the produce industry. He knows potatoes as few men do. Another of these fruit merchants is Nathan Kronman, a native of Austria, who came to this country when a boy. W. A. Carop is another example of what a man can do in America by hard work. Over 100 million dollars worth of fruit and produce is sold each year in New York City at the auction. Buyers inspecting the shipment while on the railroad cars and bidding for it. Much of this sold by Hugh Connolly, whose rise to success in his line is an inspiration to every poor boy in America. He has made the "Sunset" oranges of California famous the country over.

The fruit and produce business of the United States is enormous. The annual potato crop is about 430 million bushels; apples, when crop is normal, about 27 million bushels; lemons about 3 1/2 million boxes; bananas over 37 million bunches. The bananas come from Cuba, the West Indies and Central America. The bulk of the oranges come from California and Florida. Some are imported from Porto Rico. The larger part of the lemons are grown in California and about one-third imported. Maine and Michigan are the leading potato states.

235 Pupils Have Perfect Record for Five Months

A total of 235 pupils of the grade schools of Janesville compose the roll of honor for perfect attendance which means neither absent or tardy throughout the last semester. There are more than 2,000 pupils, meaning that 10 per cent have a perfect record.

The grades having the highest number of pupils who are listed on the honor roll are the seventh and fourth grades having 36 pupils each. Other grades have an enrollment on the honor list as follows: Eighth, 22; Washington, 30; Douglas, 30; Garfield, 25; Lincoln, 14, and Webster, 9.

The increase in the attendance of the pupils in the schools this year is largely due to the efforts of Miss Rosemary Enright who has taken charge of this work the past semester. It was formerly done by Clerk E. C. Burnham, along with his other work.

WOULD TELL MAN OF NIECE'S DEATH
Information is sought here concerning Will Rhein, said to be a contractor, and John Lynette. The request comes to the police department from C. A. Egan, Postville, O., who wishes to inform Rhein of the death of his niece.

Voice of the People

Editor, Gazette:
The writer has never before availed himself of the Voice of the People to express his views regarding city affairs and it is with considerable reluctance that he does so now. But after what was said on the first page of Tuesday's Gazette he feels there is a matter that is open to discussion.

First: Is it good policy to increase the salary of our city officials at a time when everything is on a decline; when the laboring class, which is the backbone of our city are receiving a sharp cut in their wages; when our salaried people are forced to make a considerable reduction in their incomes; and when our business and professional men are facing conditions that cause them no small concern?

Second: What is there about the duties of these offices that should call for the raise? Are they more arduous now than they have been in the past? The mayor's office for instance. What is there about it that should call for an additional $1000 per year? Certainly according to our city charter there is not work enough laid out for him that he can earn that amount of money. And what about our building code, which provides for a building and electrical inspector? Can either one of these offices be abolished and leave the code remaining? Of what value is the code with no one to see to its enforcement? Why should that important office be abolished in order to have a little money to help boost the salary of other offices? Is the building code necessary, then an inspector is necessary. If we don't need an inspector then we certainly don't need a code.

Third: Would it not have been better to have allowed two weeks before the city of announcing the report of the committee on city salaries, thereby giving the voters time to think and express themselves on the question than to reduce the matter through in the short time proposed? There is much more along these lines that might be said, but I will leave that for someone else.

I wish that a discussion of the city manager form of government might be taken up in the columns of the Gazette for I don't know enough about it to vote intelligently if it should come before the voters for a decision.

I don't approve of any kind of a non-deplume so my name appears below.

W. J. Cannon.

Editor Gazette:

I have been reading the letters of ex-soldiers in the "Voice of the People" with great interest and now I will attempt to be heard from the sector. I am an ex-soldier and was with the 32nd division in France. I was slightly wounded and I inhaled a little gas and I haven't got quite the "hon" to work that I once had. It wasn't for the fact that I have kind parents who give me the use of a home. I too would be sinking by this time. But if matters get no worse I don't expect help from any other source and whatever I have to say in this letter, will be with the idea of helping my buddies who were more unfortunate than I am.

First in regards to this drive to help the poor German children. If we get the list of those who gave, we will find there are two classes of people that gave, the first is of those who give toward every drive and they have such a generous heart, they cannot think of any one having to go without in this world. Their numbers are few and we do not count them. The other class is of those people who have had such long faces since the war ended and they were mostly born in Germany but came over to America years ago to get all they could and enjoy the liberties of our country. But they could not forget the "Fatherland" and you remember how it hurt their feelings so to buy Liberty bonds. But at last a chance came and now they give all they can to send back to Germany, the very gold they have earned under our flag, but they would never think of helping out poor and needy.

Do people realize we are still technically at war with Germany and one of Uncle Sam's rules of war is that no one is to aid the enemy. Why should we break one of his laws. Why cannot we wait until he finds somebody who represents the government of Germany and makes peace, and then those who have relatives over there can write letters to them and see if they reach their destination and then send clothes or other little things they may need. And the rest of you people who have anything to give, take care of the ones at home first and if the day comes that our house is straightened around, then see who is in need in the countries across the sea. Germany in America have been condemning our government, because their packages never reach; their folks in Germany since the war and it certainly would surprise them if they could see their packages really get to Germany but stolen by profiteers, etc., over there.

Do we ex-soldiers hate the German people? I believe I am expressing the sentiment of the majority when I say we do not. Can we forgive them, yes we can forgive them, but we can never forget. What is it we loathe and detest? It is German militarism and every man that sympathizes with it. Can we ever forget what we saw, probably we can forget some of the turpitudes of it but we can never forget the women who have been caught in the net as the Germans advanced over Belgium and northern France and what happened to them. It is the biggest blot on civilization in the twentieth century. And can we forget that gas, it seems so cowardly and yet they say all is fair in war. How we wished to get at them with rifle and bayonet but few of us got the chance and when we did, they were as thick as mosquitos around you and yet some of us seemed to live through it.

We do not condemn people, because they are of German descent, because many of them, in fact most of them make good American citizens in time just as well as people of other nationalities. But here and there we find that type of German who expresses his sympathies for the Kaiser and of course our government is no good in his opinion at all. Examination would show that this type has such a thick skull that the little space left inside is practically nothing but vacuum. I have found from experience, it is no use arguing with them, but that the best policy is to
